

California, A Changing State

Grade Four

- 4.1 Students demonstrate an understanding of the physical and human geographic features that define places and regions in California.
- 4.2 Students describe the social, political, cultural, and economic life and interactions among people of California from the pre-Columbian societies to the Spanish mission and Mexican rancho periods.
- 4.3 Students explain the economics, social, and political life in California from the establishment of the Bear Flag Republic through the Mexican-American War, the Gold Rush, and the granting of statehood.
- 4.4 Students explain how California became an agricultural and industrial power, tracing the transformation of the California economy and its political and cultural development since the 1850s.
- 4.5 Students understand the structures, functions, and powers of the local, state, and federal governments as described in the United States Constitution.

4.1

California, A Changing State

Students demonstrate an understanding of the physical and human geographic features that define places and regions in California.

4.2

California, A Changing State

Students describe the social, political, cultural, and economic life and interactions among people of California from the pre-Columbian societies to the Spanish mission and Mexican rancho periods.

4.3

California, A Changing State

Students explain the economics, social, and political life in California from the establishment of the Bear Flag Republic through the Mexican-American War, the Gold Rush, and the granting of statehood.

4.4

California, A Changing State

Students explain how California became an agricultural and industrial power, tracing the transformation of the California economy and its political and cultural development since the 1850s.

4.5

California, A Changing State

Students understand the structures, functions, and powers of the local, state, and federal governments as described in the United States Constitution.

4.1

California, A Changing State

Students demonstrate an understanding of the physical and human geographic features that define places and regions in California.

4.2

California, A Changing State

Students describe the social, political, cultural, and economic life and interactions among people of California from the pre-Columbian societies to the Spanish mission and Mexican rancho periods.

4.3

California, A Changing State

Students explain the economics, social, and political life in California from the establishment of the Bear Flag Republic through the Mexican-American War, the Gold Rush, and the granting of statehood.

4.4

California, A Changing State

Students explain how California became an agricultural and industrial power, tracing the transformation of the California economy and its political and cultural development since the 1850s.

4.5

California, A Changing State

Students understand the structures, functions, and powers of the local, state, and federal governments as described in the United States Constitution.